CENTRAL AMERICAN PEACE

DOING THEIR BEST TO BUILD UP

Great Resources of the Country, and trine, and Oppose the Influence of Any European Power in the Building of the Caupl.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2-Mr. John Rice Chandler, the correspondent for the As-sociated Press in Guatemala, arrived direct from that country today and he was requested to make a full and frank statement of the situation in Central America now that he is on America soil Mr. Chandler has been in the service of the United States government in Central and South America for several years and is fully acquainted with the situation and can spoak intelligently. He says: "There is a genrael belief that Central Americans are always at war, or on the eve of a revolution. Recently this belief has apparently been backed up by the telegraphic reports of several journals in the United States. In truth four of the five republics are today apparently quiet. The first, Selvador, has had some riots recently, due to the connivances of the Enetas, headed by General Antonio Lizeta, who is now in San Francisco, trying to organize a fillbustering party with American capital in the Californian city. Nevertheless the party in power, with General Guiterren at its head, has the good will of the majority of the people, and it may be difficult to oust him. The republics are doing their best to build is fully acquainted with the situation and it may be difficult to oust him. The republics are doing their best to build up their national credit and keep all surbulent elements in their places. But the Guaremaian has been without revolution for some twenty years and there has been absolute peace during this period, with the exception of a war in 1890 with Salvador, which lasted two months.

The country has one railroad finished and two in course of construction. The Atlantic line will inally foin the capitol at Port Barrios, and then the country will be but four lays from the United States, whereas it row takes fifteen days to reach San Francisco by the Pacific Mail line. Most of the trade of Central America goes to san Francisco and New York, but there is no reason why Memphis, St. Louis, New Grianns and other cities on the Missispip, also Chicago, Cincinnati and wher western cities that are practically ributary to the Mississippi river, could not get a very large share. One of the vital questions in Central America ioday, is naturally the Monroe foctrine, and the course the American covernment may pursue it, sustaining it. The Central Americans thoroughly believe that no other nation but the United States can and should build the Nicaraguan camal, and that the $160,000,000, which it may cest, would be simply paid for by the obtaining of a majority of South American commerce, especially 'In the account place, the killing and pillaging receives great encouragement by reason of the depredations committed by hordes of disbanded soldiers all over the country. The Chinese government has a peculiar method of disposing of its troops at the close of a war. When the mildiers are no longer needed, they are discharged from service at the place where they bappened to be at the time. The fact that an army may be several hundred or a thousand miles away from home when it is disbanded, and the fact that the soldiers may not possess any means of getting home, does not interest the government in the least. The troops are turned losse and to use an American expression, they have to beat their way back to the place from whence they came. That they should pillage and commit depredations is, therefore, only natural to such people under such circumstances, and tranquility will not reign in China for some time to come.

Missionary Assaulted.

Missionary Assaulted.

"Just before I left Japan, I learned that an American missionary who has been leboring rear Peking since 152 had been assaulted and severely cut with a knife. His name is D. Z. Sheffield, and I have known him quite well for years. It is only fair to the other side to say, however, that the assailants were arrested and will be tried for their offense. It such prompt action was taken in the cases of other offenders the wholesale killing of missionaries in China would be speedily stopped. It is almost impossible, however, to mete out justice to offending Chinese in the interior provinces, and the fault is the fault of the government."

Mr. Holesamb says the most inheresting question in the Orient at the present time, outside of the missionary massacres and the cholera is the approaching conflict between Russia and Japan.

"That Japan and Russia will become mixed up in a dispute which will result in war, goes without saying," he said, "and the commencement of actual hostilities is not far off. The Japanese have a big grievance against Hussia and Russia is preparing to make things warm for the Japanese. The other day I was told very frankly by Japanese officials who hold high positions in the government, that Japan would live to rue the day when she permitted herself to become mixed up in a war with China. It has given Russia an opportunity she has long waited for.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—George Ed. Wolfe the well known long distance bleycle rider and the present holder of the Chicago-New York bicycle reof the Chicago-New York bicycle cord started this morning at 4 o'clock on a long and tedious ride for the metropolis in an attempt, not only to break the record now held by himself but also to outride if possible that other well known long distance rider and present holder of the 100 and 200 mile road records, H. P. Searle, who, as previously stated in these dispatches, left the corner of Washington boulevard and Halsted street. this city, at 4:30 a. m. for New York City in an attempt to lower Wolfe's record for that distance. What adds interest to Wolfe's undertaking is the fact that his contemplated journey had been kept a profound secret until the very last moment and even then very few other than certain newspaper people were made aware of the undertaking. Searle especially has been in cord started this morning at 4 o'clock people were made aware of the under-taking. Searle especially has been in total ignorance of the fact of Wolfe's starting and will only be made aware of it when he reaches a telegraph station somewhere on the road, where the information of his competitor's start has preceded him. Wolfe is very proud of his former achievement and proud of his former achievement and is bound that no man shall wrest from him his hard earned laurels if he can help it, whereas Searle will be paced all the way through to New York, Wolfe will start unaccompanied and will depend upon friends along the way to gratuitously come to the front and aid him in the pacing line. He way to gratuitously come to the front and aid him in the pacing line. He argues that it will be a great feather in his cap if he can reach New York first in this manner, as it will also detract much from Searle's performance. Searle will also have the aid of men sent on in advance by train to look out for his interests. Wolfe stated just before his departure that his idea in starting half an hour ahead of Searle was to keep the latter behind him all the way through, his cardinal object being to arrive at the south of Ramon de las Yaguas on his cardinal object being to arrive at the great seaboard town far in advance of his competitor, thus further detracting from the latter's performance. There has been considerable rivalry between these men for months past and it is safe to say that when Searle is made aware of his nine officers and thirty-nine soldiers when Searle is made aware of his rival's appearance in the arena, which rival's appearance in the arena, which he is supposed to monopolize, entirely himself, it will spur him to greater afforts and the public may look to something phenomenal in the line of long distance bicycling. A FALSE ISSUE PUT BEFORE THE PEOPLE.

Question of Responsibility Should Be Fully Ventilated-Policy of the Two Great Parties With Regard to Handling the Surplusers Not Realized.

A large crowd packed the hall at the corner of First North and Fifth West streets last night to listen to Democratic oratory by Hon. B. H. Roberts. A brief preliminary address was made by Dr. Roumania B. Pratt. She said that her devotion to the principles of Jefferson had always been strong and that the majority of the women of Utah would flock to that standard. Jefferson-ianism, she said, is true Americanism and every indication points to a victory this fall for those who follow the stand-ard of the Press of the standard of the Democracy.

B. H. Roberts then delivered the speech of the evening. He said that of the many points at which the two great political parties diverge he would discuss but one or two of the most vital issues, HAVANA, Sept. 2.—The command of Lieutenant-Colonel Zubla surprised the insurgent bands led by Suarez and Zayas in Quernada, near Grandee Remedios and, after a sharp engagement, trouted them. When a first question of responsibility should be fully ventilated and discussed. When a first party had only lately come linto power.

Paralicied condition was charged by the Republicans to the Democratic parts Yet that party had only lately come into power.

This question of responsibility should be fully ventilated and discussed. When the Democratic administration began the national finances were in a deplorable condition. The credit of the nation had to be upheld, the gold reserve in the treasury to be protected. In order to meet this condition something that was almost unprecedented was done. United States bonds were issued in a time of peace. The responsibility of this was laid upon the Democratic party and upon that false issue the Democracy was defeated.

Having one succeeded upon that issue, the Republicans will try it again. Their declaration in the recent platform against tha issuance of bonds serves notice that that cry will again be raised. We welcome them to come out and fight the coming battle upon that issue. In the midst of awakening industries and reviving prosperity, the people will be ready to calmly consider the causes which led to the industrial crisis and later to the issuance of bonds.

Grover Cleveland was elected in 1884, took the reigns of government in 1885 and left his seat of honor in 1889. When he retired at the end of that period it was after a successful term of office. The administration was free from scandals and injustice. It might have been even more successful had better laws prevailed. He had to administer the laws which had been enancted by Republican legislators. Many of these were unwieldy and imperfect.

In his controversy with Mr. Blaine, Mr. Chedical and in the treasure of the treasure of the controversy with Mr. Blaine, Mr.

In his controversy with Mr. Biaine, Mr. Gladstone said that the prosperity of the last thirty years had been the result of unlimited resources, the newness and greatness of opportunity, and not because of a protective system. The prosperity that crowned the nation during perity that crowned the nation during that thrity years was not in reality be cause of Republican rule but in spite of it. When the first term of Mr. Cleve land's administration closed there was reserve of $83,000,000, outside of the $100,000,000 reserve. Altogether the total surplus left in the treasury at that time was about $183,000,000. This was admitted by Mr. Harrison's first secretary of the treasury.

back to the government mansion to find that instead of $135,00,000 he had left in the treasury, the valuts were now empty. In the face of this the Republicans condemn the present administration for the issuance of bonds.

The Republican prophecies of the last two years have foreshadowed a period of great calamity. But these forebodings are met by the hum of awakening industry and the dawning of a brighter day for the republic.

"Stop him," "stop him," "police," yelled a mob of men on West Temple street last evening, the object of all this commotion being a fleeing man, pur-

Ray Raymond, a Herald reporter who was coming out of the postoffice scented an item and haited to ascertain the cause of the commotion. The pursued and pursuers came right toward the reporter and he prepared to do the stopping requested, but the quarry shouted "Don't stop me or it will be the worse for you." Raymond allowed the man to go by and noting he had no weapon of any kind in sight, and being something of a sprinter himself, took a hand, or a foot rather, in the event with such good effect that the fellow was overhauled in about a haif block. As soon as he had him in hand the crowd came up and began shouting, "Lynch him." 'Rick he shead off," 'Let me get at him," and all that kind of talk.

"This man is my meat," said Raymond, "If there is going to be any punching done I will take a stick in the game myself. What is he wanted for?"

Everybody started to tell all about it at once, but finally a tangible story was obtained, from which it appeared that an old lady of 60 years, named Margare! Harrison, was going to get some washing at the home of a Mrs. Curits and when in the alley between South Temple and First South, behind the Richards block, she was assaulted by the man who threw her down. She screamed and he ran away. She followed and called to some men to stop him. They gave chase with the result mentioned.

Raymond led his man up West Temple until the old lady was met. She identified him at once, saying 'That is the man.' This done, the crowd wanted to do a whole lot of violence to the miscreant, who gave his name as Perkins, but the newspaper man stood pat and turned his victim over to the custody of Deputy Sheriff Guthrie, who landed him in the county jail. He will be heard today on a charge of assault with intention to rape.

fend Themselves.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 2.-By the decision of Judge Gilbert, concurred in by Judge Hanford, receivers Oakes, Payne and Rouse must appear in the "Stop him," "stop him," "police," yalled a mob of men on West Temple street last evening, the object of all this commotion being a fleeing man, pursued by a yelling mob.

Ray Raymond, a Herald reporter who was coming out of the postoffice scented an item and haited to ascertain the cause of the commotion. The pursued and pursuers came right toward the reporter and he prepared to do the stopping requested, but the quarry shouted "Don't stop me or it will be the worse for you." Raymond allowed the man to go by and noting he had no weapon of any kind in sight, and being something of a sprinter himself, took a hand, or a foot rather, in the event with such good effect that the fellow was overhauled in about a half block. As soon as he had him in hand the crowd came up and began shouting, "Lynch him," "Kick he shead off," "Let me get at him," and all that United States court for the northern First, half dozen slik handkerchiese, Baer Shoe company; second, one rocker, Co-op. Judge Gilbert says: "The actual possession of the property of the insolvent corporation by the first court, through its receivers, could extend no further than the territorial limits of that court's jurisdiction. The rights the re-ceivers are accorded in courts whose court's jurisdiction. The rights die control jurisdiction is exterior to that of initial proceeding have their basts in comity. Such comity rests upon the fact that another court is in the actual possession of a portion of the property, which can not well be segregated and which the best interests of all concerned require to be managed as a single fystem. Here, however, it is shown that at the time of filling this application to remove the receivers, there is no part of the railroad line of the Northern Pacific Railroad company within the jurisdiction of the court that first appointed them and that there is in that district no personal property held
